FOR GOVERNOR,

MAJ. GEN. JOHN W. GEARY,

OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY

Proclamation Finished.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Whereas, there has been shown to be that certain civil disturbed persons have within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, begun and set on foot, and have provided and prepared, and are still engaged in providing and preparing means for a military expedition and enterprise, which expedition and enterprise is to be carried on from the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, against the colonies, districts and people of British North America, within the dominions of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland with which said colonies, districts and people and kingdom the United States are at peace

And whereas, the proceedings aforesaid constitute a high misdemeanor, forbidden by the laws of the United States as well as by the laws of nations

Now, therefore, for the purpose of preventing the carrying on of the unlawful expedition and enterprise aforesaid from the territory and jurisdiction of the United States, and to maintain the public peace as well as the national honor, and enforce obedience and respect to the laws of the United States, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States do admonish and warn all good citizens of the United States against taking part in any wise in said criminal enterprise or abetting and unlawful proceedings and to arrest and bring to justice all persons who may be engaged therein and in pursuance of the Act of Congress in such cases made and provided. Furthermore authorize and empower Major Gen George G Meade, Commander of the Military Division of the Atlantic, to employ the land and naval forces of the United States and the militia thereof to arrest and prevent the setting on foot and carrying on the expedition and enterprise aforesaid

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed Done at the city of Washington this sixth day June, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty six and of the Independence of the United States the ninetieth ANDREW JOHNSON

By the President
WM H SEWARD Secretary of State

Mr. Lincoln's Religious Character.

Mr Holland has published Mr Lincoln's religious character with a distinctness that must settle all cavil upon that point He believed in God and in His personal direction of the affairs of men He believed himself to be under His control and guidance The Bible was his companion and prayer his resort in his greatest needs He touching appeal to his friends upon leaving Springfield came from the very depths of his soul, and no administration of our government has ever been marked by reflections more that have marked that of Abraham Lincoln We cannot refrain from quoting a single very remarkable passage from Mr Holland's biography illustrating this point After Mrs Lincoln's election he was conversing with Mr Bateman in Springfield in reference to the fact that the people and citizens of the Springfield city were to vote against him on account of their proslavery predilections Mr Lincoln was walking the room with a small Testament in his hand and deeply agitated Stopping at last he said with tremulous tone and his cheeks wet with tears I know there is a God, and that he hates injustice and slavery I see the storm coming and I know His hand is in it If He has a place and work for me—and I think He has—I believe I am ready I am nothing but truth is everything I know I am right because I know that liberty is right for Christ teaches it and Christ is God I have told them that a house divided against itself cannot stand and Christ and reason say the same and they will find it so Douglas don't care whether a negro is voted up or voted down but God cares and humanity cares and I care and with God's help I shall not fail I may not see the end but it will come and I shall be vindicated and these men will find that they have not raised their Babel aright

It is difficult to find, without tears, the story of Mr Lincoln's anxious, weary life during the four years in which he filled the Presidential chair Misunderstood, misrepresented, but denied a man was never burdened before, he jostled with political factions united by the hungry pack of office seekers willing, under a perpetual sense of fearful responsibility, his pillow was the thornliest and his path the roughest that the people ever knew Out of the depths of his care worn spirit, he cried to one of his friends "I shall never be glad any more" And yet this strong, great man went steadfastly doing his righteous work, cheating the superficial observer with a semblance of light hearted gayety never unmindful of the little daily duties of kindness and charity to the poor and suffering who so constantly bespoke his intervention in their behalf full of sympathy for the lowest soldier in the ranks quick to detect imposition quicker still to aid now digging his own short comings, waiting, striving, praying, for the time when the blindness of the people should be taken away

It is one of the saddest reflections in reading Mr Lincoln's life that as he advanced the consummation of his noble aims, he felt that his overtaxed strength was giving way, and that he should not live to see the fruition of his hopes To one who congratulated him upon the prospect of termination of the war "I know—I know" said he, pressing his hand on either side, "but the springs of life are weaking away and I shall not last" To this idea he frequently recurred and we cannot doubt that he was deliberately sacrificing his own life to his overpowering sense of duty, long before the assassin's bullet closed his career

"The King of the Book-stalls."

The Philadelphia correspondent of the Round Table gives the following account of one of our citizens, which we transfer with pleasure to our columns

Ten years ago there was a man here who was king of the Book stalls This was John Campbell, Irish by birth a native, indeed, of the kingdom Kerry where it is claimed every man, woman and child can speak Latin like a native of Hungary John Campbell had the advantage of long and good experience, having kept an excellent second hand bookshop in Holborn before his strongly democratic politics threw him into the whirlpool of Chartism, at the time not only unpopular, but even proscribed and persecuted by the British Government The Chartists had not even a show of fair play for the judges who tried them—especially Lord Abinger, formerly Sir James Scarlett—dealt out the law, and sometimes more than the law upon their trials for sedition Mr Campbell was marked out as a victim his ability being great and his influence over his fellows considerable Taking good advice, he came over to this country then a young man, and commenced his familiar business in Philadelphia He first kept a small store at Eleventh and Market streets Being a Democratic politician the County Commissioners granted him permission to erect his stall by the Court House His collection of books new as well as second hand is now the largest and most valuable ever offered for sale by any one in his peculiar branch of the book trade in this city It includes English editions of standard authors in fine bindings, scarce American works curious French Books black letter volumes in English, German and Italian, law books in great numbers, belle letters to a still larger extent

John Campbell's knowledge of books is very great He has a specialty for law books, buying whole libraries at a time, in newly every State in the Union His politics—although Democratic—have made him a marked man; but owing to his large stock of books and the popular belief that he is a thoroughly honest man, persons of all shades of political opinion deal with him His book store is, indeed, a sort of literary change, where authors and readers, editors and writers meet as upon neutral ground A valuable series of pamphlets on the Suspension of the Habeas Corpus, issued early during the late civil war is among his publications, and has already become scarce Mr Campbell has ready for the press an edition of the poems of Clarence Mangan the Irish poet, whose genius and unhappy death remind us so forcibly of Poe but has delayed publishing it in consequence of the high price of paper It will contain a new and full biography of Mangan, and between forty and fifty poems never before collected in any edition of his writings

Mr Campbell, it should be added, is himself a vigorous prose writer, and has wielded his pen freely and frequently in assertion and vindication of the ultra principles which, as a politician, he holds Not long ago there appeared in the newspapers a powerful letter of his on the Fenian question, in which he showed the utter inability of such an organization to do more, under existing circumstances, than draw money from the trusting, sanguine, and generous Irish race of this country It had a decided effect in the sale of Irish bonds here Mr Campbell is as well acquainted as most men with the condition and capabilities of Ireland, and his countrymen here put unbounded faith in his knowledge and judgment

It does not appear that any more troops are leaving Austria for Maximilian, as Francis Joseph needs all the soldiers he can raise that his own empire may remain intact.

Our Oldest Friend.

BY W. W. HOLMES

Read to "The Boys of '61," June 5, 1866.

I give you the health of the oldest friend
That Heaven or eternity, earth can lend—
A friend so faithful and kind and true
That nothing can wean him from me and you

When first we encountered in the sudden blaze
Of the dreadful a blinding and blasting rays,
And gulped at the gaseous gregory air
This old, old friend, stood waiting there.

All unhurt, with a kind of mortal strife
We had gasped and choked in the struggling life,
He watched by the cradle by day and night,
And held our hands until we stood upright

From infancy and youth our frames have grown
To sinewy muscle and solid bone
While we were changing, he altered not,
We might forget, but he never forgot.

He came with us to the college close,—
Little cared he for the sneer or pose
All the rest must pay their fees,
But the grim old dead head entered free

He stayed with us while we counted o'er
Many times each of the seasons four
And with every season, from year to year
The days became shorter he made more dear.

He never leaves us,—he never will,
Till our hands are cold and our hearts are still,
On birthdays, and Christmas, and New Year's too,
He always remembers both me and you

Every year this faithful friend
His little pleasure is sure to send,
Every year, wherever we be
He sends a keepsake from you and me

How he loves us! he pats our heads,
And lo! they are growing with silver threads
And he's always begging our lock of hair
Till our shining crowns have nothing to wear

At length he will tell us one by one
My child, your labor on earth is done
And now you must journey afar to see
My elder brother—Eternity!

And so when long long years have past!
Some dear old fellow will be the last—
Never a boy alive but he
Of all our goodly company!

When he lies down, but not till then,
Our kind Chess-Angel will drop the pen
That writes in the day book kept above
Our life long record of faith and love

So here's a health in homely rhyme
To our oldest earthly friend Time!
May our last survivor live to be
As old, but as wise and tough as he

Salvation by Soap.

In one sense the cholera, however much we may deprecate its visitation is the poor man's friend Stern in its methods it is resistlessly beneficent in its influence Other philanthropists have pleaded the cause of the poor, year in and year out they have described the hideous dens of disease and sin with which our Sixth Ward abounds and they have zealously urged the necessity of enforcing cleanliness and an outward regard to decency in them No response has been made by the powers that be But the cholera has done, by a simple threat, what eloquence and benevolence prayed for in vain—The grim and bony philanthropist, whose pen is a shovel and whose paper is a coffin lid is neither to be treated with silent contempt nor to be sneered away Him no talk of property rights can quiet or drive from his purpose He has issued his orders and lo! an army of cleansers are busily at work in every city Unlike other executioners who inflict capital punishment he kills, not those who do evil deeds, but those who leave good duties undone He is the avenger of sins of omission

Like certain other philanthropists this distinguished visitor is somewhat inarticulate Mr Hummel's celebrated alternative of "believe or die" is paralleled by the cholera's ultimatum of "—baths or coffins" He has more than a Catholic faith in good works By these alone can we be saved from his death giving grip Wash ye and be saved, is the gospel he brings us Cleanliness is not only next to godliness, in the cholera formula of faith it is the sole condition of life on this earth His disciples have the shortest catechism on record

"What is man's chief duty on earth?"
"To scrub"

That is all, and that is enough, for it is destined if acted on to save hundreds of thousands of lives during the present year

Boston has just established free public baths per order of the great humanitarian Council whose headquarters are in our harbor They will be opened in June

Liverpool was the first city in England to establish baths and wash houses for the people and to persevere in maintaining them, until it was proved that they were popular with the poor, and that the receipts would pay the current expenses The first experiment was made in 1842 Two years of success in Liverpool caused a model establishment to be built in London, which has been copied by nearly all the great cities of England and Scotland as well as by Paris Hamburg, Brussels, Berlin, Venice Munich, Amsterdam and Zurich The latest statistics accessible to American students are those of 1857, from which we learn that in London, in less than seven years, the gross number of baths given was 5,251,805, and the number of bathers was 1,616,576 washing the linen for about 6,000,000 persons The number of baths given annually in the London establishments is now above 1,200,000, and this out of a population of 800,000 souls—The figures show that every poor man in the vicinity of these baths indulges in the luxury at least once in two months Experience shows that in every well conducted and well situated establishment there will always be a surplus beyond the current expenditure, to assist toward the payment of the annual installments of the capital invested in building and furnishing The model establishment at Whitechapel, with 96 baths and 84 wash tubs, had an income in 1857 of £3,764, and the expenditure, including interest upon £8,000 and £150 rental, was just over £2,700. In this case, for some cause, they made end meet only But, in the Bloomsbury establishment, there was a surplus of £205, odd, while the total receipts were £3,691" This result is eminently satisfactory, because the object of these establishments is not primarily profit, but health, and the charge for a hot bath, with one towel, is only two pence English—or four cents of our Clark adulterated currency

The charges for washing are equally low, but we have not a tariff at hand

Wherever free public plunge baths can be established they ought to be introduced forthwith, and maintained as long, at least as there is any danger from the frightful pestilence which finds us almost unprepared to fight it Like the devil of the monkish legends, all epidemics are afraid of holy water—and all water that is clean enough to drink, or wash with, is holy now days

Will not some of our wealthy and public spirited citizens move in this reform? Who will be the Astor, or the Cooper, or the Girard of the Public Body? All whom we can draw from the "gin mills" into our public libraries we save from mental contamination, and now, can we not enable the poor and the working classes to enjoy what lodging and tenement houses so plentifully lack—the means of bodily purification at a reasonable cost?

The duty of the Hour is—to wash It is well expressed in the once popular parody

What is the best for us to do?
You scrub me
I scrub you,
That is the best for us to do

Financial and commercial affairs still wear a very gloomy aspect in England Two heavy failures are reported

Austria has not yet given her consent to a European Congress, which is said to be dependent on her participation An outbreak of hostilities was still speedily expected Mr Gladstone declared in the House of Commons that the English Government had little hope of being able to preserve peace Kossuth is said to be inciting revolution in Hungary

By the cholera report for June 6th there appears to have been eight new cases, nine deaths, one returned to the ship whence he came, nineteen convalescents transferred to the Saratoga and the whole number remaining under treatment was 67

Some buildings at Sugar's Point, Beach Island, were taken possession of by a police force on Wednesday, supported by the United States revenue cutter Cayuga for the purpose of being used as a quarantine hospital The passengers on board the cholera ships will be transferred to this place as soon as it is cleansed and made fit for their reception

THE MEXICAN QUESTION IN CONGRESS

NEW YORK, June 8

Vera Cruz advices of May 26th state that trouble is brewing between the colonists in Cordova and the Indians who formerly occupied the land

It was rumored that a representation from the Fenian Brotherhood had been very cordially received by Maximilian It was supposed the representation came on official Fenian business — The Emperor was hard pressed for funds, Charlotte, the Empress, refusing to supply him from her own pin money any longer.

Advices from Kingston (Jamaica) May 23 say that the Governor has given orders that all broken packages of goods must be inspected by an officer of the Customs before the drawback will be allowed on their exportation

The Kingston Journal of the 16th of May says The Clergy bill will expire in a short time and it is a subject of serious consideration whether it ought not to be recalled

The Herald has a rumor of the departure, some time since of a Fenian privateer from this port, with a full crew with arms and munitions of war, which were put on board in Long Island Sound, when she started to sea The vessel is an ironclad side wheel ex British blockade runner, and ex United States gunboat, and was sold in Philadelphia last August for $19,000 and towed here She is said to be in the condition in which she was left by the Navy Department and mounts six broadside guns Fenians are said to have paid $80,000 for her

The Tribune's specials from Malone last night say the arrest of Gen Heffernan caused the deepest despondency in the Fenian ranks He had gone to the depot to take the train for St Albans from which point an attack was to be made at once On reaching the depot an old acquaintance named Major Mount, of Albany, met and shook hands with him Mount then went to Maj Silvey of the United States regulars and pointed Heffernan out as a Fenian leader — He also pointed out Col Quinn Both were immediately arrested

The officers then proceeded to the hotel and arrested Gen Murphy

The following list comprises the arrests made

Gens Murphy and Heffernan, Capt Lindsey, Col O'Reilly, of Rochester Lieut O Brien, New York Colonel Euston, New York Col Quinn, Albany Dr Shaney, New York Capt Brady Albany Captain Josh Murphy, Major Kinnedy, Albany Maj Connelly New York Capts Fallon, Geasy and Glass

Two hours were given them to explain the true state of affairs to their men to counsel submission to the authorities and accept means and transportation to their homes The men are entirely destitute The greatest excitement followed the arrest and threats of all sorts were made.

A man denounced as a spy was seized and horrible beaten under the eyes of the regulars, who looked on without showing the least disposition to interfere in his behalf The officers commanding the regulars became bewildered, scarcely knowing what to do

They had had very good reason to believe that they could not make their men attack the Fenians, many of whom had served with them in the late rebellion Meanwhile Major Silvey went to Heffernan and Murphy and besought them to come out and quell the disturbance and disperse the crowd They readily acquiesced and spoke to the crowd at some length beseeching them to keep unstained the reputation they had gained under the Stars and Stripes the year of the rebellion, keeping quiet and doing nothing to disgrace the cause they now had in their keeping The crowd then quietly dispersed

The men are held under strong military guard, and will probably be taken to Ogdensburg to morrow

The Fenians were to move along the whole line to night upon Montreal

A Montreal special says All the inhabitants on the borders are leaving with their moveables to the United States for protection

The Seventh Fusiliers (regulars) left for West Farnham the probable scene of an early battle

The Royals (volunteers) are under marching orders

It is reported that to morrow is the day fixed for the rising of the Canadian Fenians

BOSTON, June 8

The St Albans correspondent of the Journal says of the Fenian advance into Canada

The arrest of Gen Sweeney dispirited the men He made a speech, however, to cheer them up and told that they were going to fight their old enemy and said that they must not molest women or children, but that he should give them no instruction as to what they might do with the men who might fall into their hands

Not more than one-fourth of the Fenians that marched into Canada are armed They went into a field and encamped a short distance from the line

Gen Spear had been drinking and was somewhat intoxicated Some of his men obtained whisky and were feeling well notwithstanding the displirited circumstances Others were disheartened They had very little to eat Others ate crackers About one hundred and fifty purchased meals at the hotels Barrels of flour went out from St Albans to day

There are no Canadian troops within fifty miles of where Gen Spear has stationed his forces

Buffalo specials say Gen Lynch ordered his men to return to their homes A rumor is current there, however, that the Fenians would cross below Rochester last night

A Detroit special of the 7th says Three hundred Fenians have arrived from Chicago

The reported invasion of Canada via Bayfield is premature

There are 1,800 British troops at Goderich, 17 companies at Sarnia, 900 men at Windsor, and a sufficient force below, with a reserve of 3,000 at Chatham

The U S revenue cutters John Sherman and Andrew Johnson are ordered to enforce the neutrality laws

ST ALBANS, VT, June 8

Gen Sweeney and Col Mehan were arraigned before a civil tribunal this forenoon The proceedings were private, no reporter being admitted

NEW YORK, June 8

All recruiting for Fenians in this city is suspended to-day

President Roberts appeared at the Fenian headquarters to-day, but does no business, as an officer is in attendance near him

No further arrests have been made

PORTLAND, ME., June 8

It is stated that the Vermont Central Railroad have applied to the Grand Trunk Railroad for transportation for Fenians, owing to the universal skedaddle this morning using up all their cars.

NEW YORK, June 8.

A special from Ottawa, C. W., to-day, says there are 35,000 men, including regulars, under arms, and the Government is still arming

The action of the United States authorities gives great satisfaction

BUFFALO, June 8

A copy of the following order has been furnished the telegraph company in this city, relating to cypher messages

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF ONTARIO, BUFFALO, June 8, 1866.

General Orders No. 2]

In compliance with instructions from Major General Meade, in virtue of the power vested in him by the President of the United States, the transportation over railroads, by water or other modes of public conveyance, of any persons or materials of war designed or supposed to be designed for the violation of the neutrality laws, is forbidden The transmission over the telegraph wires of messages in cypher or otherwise from Fenians on matters relating to Fenian movements is also forbidden All persons are warned that any evasion or disregard of these prohibitions will be treated as aiding and abetting the violation of law

Commanding officers of the United States troops within the limits of this military district will cause this order to be made public and it is their duty to see that it is promptly and vigorously enforced WM F BARRY,
Brevet Brig Gen U S A, Commanding

BUFFALO, June 8

As many as 850 Fenians arrived in town to-day but though they did not apparently intend to stop here, the above order of General Barry will prevent them going eastward as they proposed

There is some whispering of trouble again in this neighborhood

WASHINGTON, June 8

The War Department hints that our State militia is likely to be summoned into service for the protection and vindication of the neutrality laws in connection with the operation of the Fenians

ROCHESTER, June 8

A supposed attempt to seize the Canadian steamers Corinthian and Rochester at Charlotte, last evening, was frustrated Gen Barry, on being telegraphed for orders, replied that he had no available troops to send here, and that the authorities would have to depend on what aid could be obtained from the militia and police — General Barry's forces have been sent to Ogdensburg

NEW YORK, June 8

There is no truth in the report that President Roberts has been released on his recognizance — He is still in the custody of the Deputy Marshal

Vice President Gibbons and Col Gibbons would be arrested at once if any one could be found to make affidavit against them

United States Marshal Murray having good reason to believe that a plan had been concocted to force the building in which he has his office, he remained there all last night

ST ALBANS, VT, June 8

Gen Sweeney and Col Mehan were arraigned to day before United States Commissioner Hoyt and waiving examination were held to bail, Sweeney in $20,000 and Mehan $5,000 They remain in custody until bail is given

No late news of interest has been received from the front to day

BOSTON, June 8

A St Albans special to the Journal says — There were no arrivals of Fenians this morning but numerous departures of the Brotherhood for their homes

Col Hugh Donnell's company of 65 have left for Springfield and about 75 or 100 who straggled in from the front and been loitering around town have left on the train for Boston They were provided with transportation by the United States Government and were very grateful for it They say that as soon as it becomes known at the front that the Government is furnishing them with transportation home the Fenian army will be among the things that were

A movement made on the part of the British Government will probably hasten the disposition of the Fenian invaders

Last evening there were thirty car loads of British regulars, numbering some 2,500, landed at Farnum, about 14 miles from St Johns, on the Waterloo road, and at a point nearly opposite the invaders

OTTAWA, C W, June 8

Parliament opened to day The following is a synopsis of the Governor's speech After alluding to the new Capitol buildings in an appropriate manner, he speaks of the Reciprocity treaty and says Papers will be laid before the House that it is imperative to find new markets for our products

Allusion is made to the Fenian movement as follows The threats and preparations for an attack on Canada, constantly and openly made by a body organized in the United States of America, known as Fenians, compelled me, since the last Parliament, by the advice of my Ministers, to call out for active service a large portion of the volunteer militia force of the Province The spirit displayed by the people regarding a response to my proclamation has received merited approval by Her Majesty's Government

Events which have occurred during the last few days offered continued proof of the necessity for the precautionary measures adopted The Provinces have been invaded by a lawless band of marauders, but I congratulate the country that they were promptly confronted and within twenty four hours compelled to make a precipitate retreat I deplore the loss of life and sufferings entailed upon the gallant body of Canadian volunteers in the engagement which took place repelling promptly the invaders who attacked the country, and I feel assured you will not omit to alleviate as far as may be in your power the miseries so wantonly inflicted upon many families, but while I grieve over individual loss, I congratulate the country that the first note of danger has shown that Canada possesses in her volunteers, a body of men ready to peril their lives in defense of the Queen and the country, have been thoroughly aroused by recent occurrences It must be apparent to all that the whole resources of the county, both of men and means may at any moment be called into requisition

Special dispatches to the morning papers from Washington contain the following

The Finance Committee of the Senate has decided to change the House Tax bill so as to allow them to charge upon consumers the amount of the Government tax and to relieve railway companies in a similar manner

A report is in circulation that Jeff Davis is to be immediately liberated on bail It is quite certain that the Federal authorities here have given the subject no consideration since the postponement of his trial was decided upon, and are not likely to do so for some time to come

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs had another long session to-day over the Mexican question They were unable, however, to arrive at any definite conclusion beyond the Monroe doctrine must be maintained

The merchants of Chicago, fearing that the New York interest in the Senate may defeat the House Niagara, Ship Canal bill, proposed to day by telegraph to send a delegation here to urge matter, but the Illinois delegation do not deem it necessary and feel the utmost confidence that the bill will pass just as it came from the House,

PHILADELPHIA, June 8

Probst was executed this morning Not few persons were present including only six reporters from the city papers

NEW YORK, June 8

A dispatch from Augusta, Ga, to the Tribune says the military by order of Gen Tillson, have taken possession of the printing office of the Loyal Georgian

The Sale of Gold.

On Tuesday last the Secretary of the Treasury sent to the House of Representatives a communication designed as a reply to the resolution adopted by that body on the 28th of May, respecting the sale of gold by the department. Every citizen ought to read that communication as well as the letter of H. H. Van Dyck, the Assistant Treasurer at New York, which accompanies it. We have no disposition to enter upon a controversy regarding the propriety of selling gold by the public authorities, for the power having been given, we must be willing to concede a large degree of volition to the head of our fiscal affairs. Where great latitude is given there may be many abuses, but we are satisfied that the officers have managed their difficult duties in this case with judgment. Mr. McCulloch's report, as we perceive by the Congressional news, was presented by the Speaker and laid on the table. The report explains the reason of the late immense shipment of coin to Europe. In this connection Mr. Van Dyck says: "Being of firm conviction that the best method to avert the crisis abroad was the liberal shipment of coin, since such crisis must eventuate in the return of the United States securities for resale in this market, and anxious also to preserve the highest value of our securities at home for the benefit of the millions of dollars in bonds held by our own citizens, I saw the large amounts taken by the Scotia and City of London depart without regret. He refers to the intelligence brought by the Cuba, &c., &c. The total amount sold by the officers was about thirty-six millions of dollars, at an expense of about one eighth of one per cent for commissions, &c.

The statements entertained in the letter of Mr. Van Dyck are of the most extraordinary character. There is a fair allowance of egotism displayed in the production, and yet, perhaps, not more than any other man would have manifested under similar circumstances; for the most difficult of all problems are those that relate to the finances of a nation, and when a bold stroke is made which results, or may be presumed to result in the public good, those who are concerned in the movement will naturally take credit to themselves, and this indeed is usually conceded. The sentence immediately preceding that with which the letter ends, contains a statement of the most gratifying nature, and if true in its length and breadth will give untold satisfaction to the people. That sentence is this: "There is more gold in the Treasury than will pay the interest on its indebtedness till January, 1867, with constant accretions from customs still to be added." Surely every citizen will have cause to take courage after the perusal of these documents. Nevertheless, it is highly important to husband our resources, and to suffer no more coin to leave the country than may be absolutely necessary to maintain our standing abroad and our credit at home. Late events have thus deferred the restoration of the specie basis, but we hope that it may not be very long before our eyes shall behold again the solid coin of the anti-rebellion period.

Personal.

Jesse H. Lord, Esq., lately one of the editors of the Dispatch, has been made editor in chief of the Scientific American, the popular and only paper of the kind in America. Until recently we hoped that Mr. Lord would not find sufficient attraction in weekly journalism to induce him to leave the field of daily labor, but we are convinced that what is our loss is his gain, and of course can do no less than hope that the patrons of the field which he now occupies will appreciate his ability. It is doubtful whether he has a superior among those who undertake to fill the various fields of journalism and for the specialty which he has lately chosen he is particularly well adapted, being a practical mechanic with an experience of some twenty years, and having a good knowledge of all the principles involved in the science and application of mechanism.—Pitts. Dispatch.

Mr. Lord has filled the position of associate editor of the Dispatch with versatile ability and marked independence of character. We congratulate him upon his exit to so wide a sphere of usefulness and influence as will be offered him in the control of the Scientific American. His political knowledge of mechanical arts and inventions as well his literary attainments amply qualify him for the responsible duties he is about to assume.

City Licenses.

Some time ago an ordinance was adopted by the Common Council requiring all retail liquor sellers, keepers of bowling saloons, and billiard tables, and all pedlers, auctioneers, &c., &c., to take out city license. The ordinance has already taken effect, and at the last meeting of the Board the Mayor reported the sum of about $1,000 paid into the City Treasury from these sources. There are many other persons who come within the scope of this ordinance and who will be required to comply with its provisions. It furnishes a very substantial revenue to the city coffers, and its results will be hailed with general satisfaction. The following is the report submitted by the Mayor on Thursday evening last:

TAXPAYERS ATTENTION.—All persons who would save four per cent on the payment of city taxes, are notified that the Collector may be found at the Common Council rooms until the 20th inst., and the above discount will be made on all taxes paid within that period. See notice.

BOROUGH ORDERS.—The City Treasurer gives notice that all holders of orders against the late borough of Titusville must present the same at his office to be registered, within the ensuing ten days. This is a matter of great importance to the holders of borough scrip, and they will consult their own interests by complying with the request without delay.

THE last heard of the Titusville Fenians they were at Sylvanus. The majority of them are probably homeward bound by this time.

"HONEST JACK" is the pioneer hackman of Titusville. You need never raise the cruise if you ride with him.

Fenianism Finished.

We have long predicted that the Fenians would have little sympathy and sanction of our Government which would connive at a violation of the neutrality laws. There was some ground for this popular opinion. Nations now a days are governed in their international relations less by established law, founded upon principles of justice and equity, than by the shifting considerations of passion, prejudice and interest.

The Fenians argued that the United States had suffered so many insults and injuries during the war, at the hands of the English Government, that we would permit, or at least do nothing to prevent in any very authoritative and official manner, the fitting out and sending forth from our boundaries and shores expeditions hostile to the English power. They argued, too, that Canada had been a nursery and refuge for Southern rebels during the rebellion, and that the American Government would like to impress the lesson upon them that "nurses, like chickens, often come home to roost." That this was the firm and fond belief that had become lodged in the Fenian mind we have no doubt. Certainly they never would have thrown away their money and made a tender of their lives in such a cause, had they supposed they were to encounter the active opposition of the Federal Government, that the whole military and naval power of the country was to be arrayed against them, if required that one and all of them were to be subject to arrest and punishment, and that the whole American people were to be united from aiding and abetting their enterprise. Put all doubt on this point is set at rest by the President's Proclamation.

It is not merely a damper, but an extinguisher of all Fenian hopes. When the rank and file of the Fenian army, if a body of men without arms or equipments, without a bureau of organization, without an ordnance or commissary department, can be dignified with such a title form of the proclamation, the expulsion of the law of neutrality the penalties of a breach of it, and the powers to whom the enforcement of the law is committed, and when they further learn that General Sweeney and President Roberts are already in the custody of our Government officials, of course, all further attempt to organize for an invasion of Canada will be abandoned. The Administration has committed a grave error and exposed itself to severe criticism for its tardy announcement of the policy of the Government in this affair.

It is a mistake which will be appropriately seized and turned against it by its political opponents when its acts come up for judgment before the popular tribunal.

And this eleventh hour proclamation while it will damage Johnson's popularity at home, will fail to command respect abroad. The Irish vote is no inconsiderable element in the doubtful balance of political parties. The Loyal Irish will perceive that had Johnson issued his proclamation when first it became a matter of public notoriety and which he could take official cognizance that the Fenians meditated the invasion of Canada, that they were actually raising their money for that purpose, and perfecting their lines in the manner of marching—he might then have entitled himself to the lasting gratitude of a poor and laboring Irish class had he then warned and admonished them as good citizens to take no part in any such ill-fated enterprise.

On the other hand had he resolved on a display of magnanimity as well as justice to our offending English and Canadian brethren he should not have delayed his proclamation till the neutrality laws had been repeatedly broken. Not only will Johnson be held responsible for the empty pockets the spilt blood, and what is more than all the broken hopes of Irish Fenians but by Canadians also he will be accused of a weak ventilation and wicked procrastination which has cost them so dearly in blood and treasure.

DEAR SIR: The undersigned members of the Second Nine of the Union Base Ball Club hereby tender their compliments to you and the nine you represent of the Union Base Ball Club, and would gladly meet them on the grounds of the above Club on Saturday, June 9th, 1866, at a friendly trial, according to the rules and regulations of the National Association of Base Ball Players. AUDITORS to the Crittenden Prize Concert, a gentleman paid $12 for a ticket, yesterday, insisting on paying $2 premium and selecting a particular number. He had dreamed three nights consecutively that the number he purchased was to draw the $10,000 prize. If he realizes his expectations everybody will envy his good fortune.

Mr. Crittenden leaves for New York this morning to effect arrangements for his Fourth of July entertainment. He has not yet decided positively upon the style of exhibition, but hopes to make it a gratifying surprise to all interested. The tickets are selling rapidly, although (to the reproach of our citizens, who are most interested in securing the success of the enterprise,) the large proportion of the tickets are being taken abroad. Ticket clubs are being formed in all the neighboring towns, and one has been organized here. Mr. Crittenden asserts that the drawing and distribution shall take place on the 4th of July, if only 1,000 tickets are disposed of. But the indications are that at least double that number will be sold during the present month.

THE THEATRE.—The second night of the engagement of Schultz & Co's Star Combination Troupe drew a large audience. Both pieces were well rendered and gave good satisfaction. An attractive bill will be presented this evening, and will positively be their last appearance. Saturday night being the end of the week's work and circus is usually devoted to light amusement, and as this is the last opportunity that will be presented to our citizens for some time of witnessing a dramatic entertainment, interspersed with songs, dances and full orchestra music, there will doubtless be an overflowing house.

WOOD MARKET ORDINANCE.—An ordinance adopted by the Common Council provides that all wood offered for sale by the load shall rest on Pine street, between Franklin and Washington streets, and no wood shall be sold except the same shall have been first measured by the City Sealer, Mr. Clark. A penalty of $5 and costs is fixed for any violation of this ordinance. The ordinance will be found in another column.

U. S. COMMISSIONER.—We learn that H. F. Phelps, Esq., attorney at law, has received the appointment of U. S. Commissioner vice B. S. Burgess, removed. Mr. Phelps is a young man of good professional attainments and popular qualities. He is, to be congratulated upon his appointment to this position. We believe he will discharge its duties with fidelity and success. Head Centre D. O. Donovan will doubtless be the first customer on the carpet.

THE Petroleum Bank examination case, which was to have taken place to-day, before Justice Mowbray, has been deferred to Thursday afternoon, the 14th inst., to accommodate counsel who have engagements preventing their attention to the case to-day.

A Trip to Forest County—Howe & Co's Mills—A Sheffield Enterprise—Scenes and Incidents of the Excursion.

About a fortnight ago the writer accompanied a small party of friends to Forest Mills, a little settlement which derives its name and business importance from an enterprise established there by I. A. Howe & Co., of Meadville. The Mills are located on the Tionesta, at a point twelve miles distant from Sheffield Station, on the P. & E. Railroad and twenty-three miles from the Allegheny. Forest county is very appropriately named, and Forest Mills, which is undoubtedly destined to become the commercial centre of its lumbering district, is already attracting considerable attention from the abundant wealth of its resources. It is in the heart of an almost unbroken forest, where the explorer still finds the vestiges of Indian occupancy, and almost every variety of game peculiar to the American wilderness. The two years which have elapsed since it emerged into the hands of Howe & Co. have sufficed to throw a decided tinge of civilization over the locality designated. The purchase includes a tract of twenty-seven square miles, through which, for a distance of five miles the Tionesta sends its broad and ample volume, provided in the economy of nature to bear to the marts of civilization the prolific accumulations of the virgin valley. If such a tract of timber could be transplanted to dry upon the illimitable plains of Kansas, Utah or Nevada, although forming as it were but a grove in the desert, it would be more precious than silver or gold to succeeding generations. The timber consists of pine, hemlock, ash, cherry, &c., and notwithstanding the immense capacity of the mills which the company have erected, and the unbiring energy with which they are drawing upon its resources, the forests may last a century.

The principal tributaries of the Tionesta, above Forest Mills are the Logan, Minister, Porcupine and Buck Run. The Tionesta furnishes an unfailing supply of power at all seasons. The large mill is an institution in itself, being 90 by 100 feet in dimensions, and supplied with five circular saws of all sizes. The mill will cut 40,000 feet of timber a day. The largest circular saw cut while we were there 550 feet in three and a half minutes. There is besides one upright saw and a very superior lath mill, which will cut 20,000 per day. The machinery is all of the best and most perfect that can be procured. The immense product of this mill, when operated to its largest capacity can be readily estimated.

The community embraces about seventy persons, and there are eight or nine houses. About one hundred acres of ground are under cultivation. A postoffice is about to be established and a church erected. Religious services are now regularly held at a private residence, by the Rev. J. I. Wisner, formerly of Lyons, N. Y., who is residing at Forest Mill. Mr. Mixer, formerly of Meadville, and Mr. Doby of Warren, are also there with their families.

But the lumbering interests of this locality may yet prove inferior to those of oil and coal. The latter crops out at the surface, in various localities, and is used in the forges and in some cases for domestic purposes. Its development upon an extensive scale is simply a question of time. The Tionesta Valley Railroad Bill, which passed the Legislature last winter, was designed especially to unveil the material resources of this region. Leaving the I. & E. at Sheffield it passes through five miles of Howe & Co's tract, (its richest coal and timber district) and will terminate at Franklin. This enterprise has already taken a practical form, the books of the company having been opened and a large amount of stock having been subscribed.

The topographical features of the Tionesta valley are very similar to those of Oil Creek and already has the steam engine drive pipe, battering ram and big sugar of the oil miner commenced to bore for the oily fluid. Certainly if immense upheavals of sand rock weighing hundreds of tons—if mountainous hills and deep valleys covered with sand rock boulders—and if unmeasurable salt springs, and other striking evidences which have foretold to a certainty the existence of oil in this region, are to be relied upon elsewhere—then the company may confidently prosecute their investigations. Two wells are already being sunk with the most gratifying indications.

To the sportsman and the tourist there is metal more attractive than either coal, iron, oil or lumber. The hunter always shoulders his gun to good purpose. Bears and wildcat are by no means extinct, and are not unfrequently encountered and dispatched. Deer are in great abundance, and venison is as plentiful in every Indian of Forest county is beef and mutton in Titusville. The angler, too, never goes on a fruitless mission up the clear babbling streams of Minister, Logan or Porky. The peerless trout darts at the cruel barb from every shaded nook and whirling eddy, and there is no better pastime for the practiced shot' or even the awkward novice, than to rise with the earliest streaks of dawn and earn his breakfast and his appetite with the rod and line.

Returning to Sheffield Station after a three days sojourn at Forest Mills, we received pleasant accommodations at the hotel of Williams & Bro., which is the headquarters of all visitors who have occasion to seek rest or refreshment by the way. A ride of twelve miles brings us to the beautiful village of Warren the capital city of Warren county and one of the most prosperous and inviting towns in Western Pennsylvania. Warren has two first class weekly newspapers the Mail and Ledger, which, though differing in politics, are alive to the material interests and advancement of their own locality. Hall's "Carved House" is a hotel which may challenge comparison in all respects with any out side of the metropolitan cities. An extensive addition has been made to its material proportions, and it is furnished throughout in a truly comfortable and luxurious style. Mr. Henry Orr the gentlemanly superintendent of the house is the paragon of his profession, and whether from his striking personal resemblance to the lamented Uncle Abe, or the irresistable charm of his individual presence, is the most popular man in his Congressional District.

Here endeth the first lesson.

That which restores vegetation and life
Is not a poison that will soil your tresses
But such a dye that sometime will impart
The wavy lustre of your glossy hair,
Selected out from nature's grand creation
A simple vegetable preparation
Where nature and where chemistry combine
To make it what it is—almost divine
A wonderous panacea, which in truth
Restores the failing lustre of your youth
And makes you feel, though scorners may insinuate
And sage show you waves his silver wand
One consolation with your life is won—

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

FINANCIAL.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

NEW YORK, June 8.

The Cotton market remains unsettled. Affairs on Wall street are dull. There is little speculative interest in stock and prices are for the moment weak. The chief exception is in Chicago and Northwestern. Erie is quiet and there is considerable speculation on the street as to the probable course of the price. Governments are rather more active than yesterday and decidedly strong for all descriptions. At the forenoon Board prices were the same as at the close of business yesterday.

Money is becoming gradually easier and the rate on call is generally 5 per cent. Discounts are fairly active and rates rather favor the seller. On prime 90 days paper the rate is about 5½ per cent. The banks have very generally availed themselves of their late large stock of National Bank currency through loans to Wall street banking firms.

PETROLEUM MARKETS.

TITUSVILLE, June 8.

The petroleum markets are little changed from our previous quotations. Oil at the wells is held firm at $3 75. Some choice gravities bring better prices, and some lots are bought at lower figures where the holders are compelled to sell. The demand may be said to be very limited.

The present condition of the eastern markets will be seen below.

As we have already exported three-fourths of the whole exports of last year, it may be presumed that they will not be greatly depended on for the future regulation of the market during the balance of the year. The demand for home consumption appears to be later this year than it was last year, and if it were to commence immediately there is no saying to what extent the markets would be affected. But from the daily supply being less than it was during the same time last year it is reasonable to suppose that the home consumption, being the same as that of last year, the supply will be limited lower in the close of the year, unless the production should increase to a greater extent than is justified by present quotations.

The margin left the refiners between the present price of crude and refined is so small as to greatly embarrass the business of refining. This causes an absence of demand and exercises a much more powerful influence in depressing the market than the distrust of foreign credit.

The refiners are in the market to a very limited extent, they merely buy sufficient oil to prevent the stoppage of their works. When the price of refined increases or when crude declines to a point which a limited or an absolute check in refining, an active demand for crude will again spring up.

NEW YORK, June 8.

Referring to the annexed report of our petroleum market, for the week ending this day, I would remark: Owing to continued unfavorable foreign advices the exporters have not been in the market to any extent and prices have been irregular, closing nominal at our quotations. The advance in gold has been counteracted by the distrust of foreign credit.

PITTSBURGH OIL MARKET.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

[Special to the Morning Herald.]

PITTSBURGH, June 8.

Crude oil this forenoon was exceedingly flat. We could not learn of a single transaction taking place prior to the day. Quotations were at out the same as yesterday. The quantity of oil on sale is light but sufficient for the demand.

Letters from Oil City this morning report 34 inches of water and rising.

Refined oil was quiet and prices unchanged. There is but very little offered and refiners are not pressing sales. The city markets are bare of oil as our last report was 500 barrels at 34½.

Free oil was dull. The only sales making are to the retail trade and at the regular price.

[illegible] GIFTS—A HOTEL FOURTH OF JULY [illegible] R. H. Crittenden, the enterprising and popular proprietor of the Crittenden House, announces in this morning's HERALD that he will celebrate the Fourth of July, in the form of a mammoth Prize Concert. The novelty of the attraction consists in the distribution among the audience, of upward of two thousand, and ninety valuable gifts, amounting in the aggregate to $40,700—the grand prize being the large two story building extending from Spring to Diamond street, valued at $10,000. The lot is 64 feet front by 140 feet in depth. The building combines both store and dwelling, the former fronting on Spring street, and having a spacious rear yard, ornamented with trees and shrubbery; the store on Diamond street, adjoining the Crittenden House, and constituting one of the most advantageous and desirable business stands in the city. The prize list also includes a one sixteenth working interest in well 108, Rocker Farm, valued at $1,000, a fine blood bay horse and buggy, two gold watches, twenty five double cased silver watches, and the entire stock of wines, liquors, cigars, glassware, and furniture in both store and dwelling above described. A complete list of the prizes will be found in another column. There will be four thousand and seventy tickets, and two thousand and ninety prizes, or a prize to every other ticket holder. Every ticket holder will be registered, and every ticket numbered in duplicate. The distribution will be in charge of a committee of disinterested citizens, to be selected by the audience at the time and place designated.

We have never before commended enterprises of this nature, from the fact that they are too often undertaken for purely speculative purposes, and managed by unprincipled parties who impose on public credulity. In this instance the facts are quite the reverse. Mr. Crittenden's references are Messrs. F. W. Ames, J. T. Chase, R. D. Fletcher, J. T. Briggs, C. C. Duffield, and W. W. Kingsland, gentlemen who are prominently known throughout the oil region. We have carefully examined the schedule and are confident there is nothing fictious or unreal about it. It is a matter of fact sale of unencumbered property at par value, by an extensive plan of distribution among ticket holders to an unexceptionable entertainment, and does not in any manner conflict with the common or statutory law.

Our citizens generally understand Mr Crittenden's object in this matter. He has built and furnished at an enormous cost the largest and best hotel in the oil region. In giving it his exclusive personal attention, and devoting his entire capital to its success, it necessitates the suspension of his former business and the disposal of all other property. Every person interested in the reputation and prosperity of Titusville should appreciate the necessity of sustaining an enterprise of this character. The price of tickets is fixed at $10 each. More than half the ticket holders will receive gifts, and some of them will have abundant cause for rejoicing.

CHOLERA

DISARMED!!!

The chief Causes of Pestilence Destroyed

DR. R. COURTARET'S DISINFECTING FLUIDS. Secured by Letters Patent in the United States and France. Prepared solely by the New York Disinfecting Company, at their Laboratory, Nos. 293, 300, and 302 Henry street, N. Y. Office, 42 Cedar street.

This Company organized on a permanent basis, with Dr. Courtaret, the celebrated French Chemist, in charge of its Laboratory, is prepared to furnish its DISINFECTING FLUIDS for sick rooms, nurseries, urinals, water closets, privies, cesspools, sewers, gutters, ships, railroads, hospitals, prisons, and public institutions of all kinds, slaughter-houses, offal and fat-boiling establishments; all kinds of manures immensely increasing the value of the latter to every farmer, and wherever poisonous and offensive gases exist. These agents are deodorizers, antiseptics, antiputrescents, and disinfectants in the scientific meaning of the words. They remove noxious gases and odors by chemical principles—leaving in their places healthful air; they are DESTROYERS, and not merely absorbents of poisonous gases—not injurious to utensils in which they are used. The attention of medical and scientific men is directed to these disinfectants. Attached are testimonials in favor of this great discovery, which, with hundreds of others can be seen at the Company's office.

DELAVAN HOUSE, ALBANY, March 30, 1866.

To the President of the New York Disinfecting Company:

Dear Sir: It is all it is represented to be. We have made many trials of disinfectants, but now consider that we have found an article which surpasses all others as a remedy against all bad odors.

T. ROMEYN & Co.

NEW YORK, April 9, 1866.

To the President of the New York Disinfecting Company:

Dear Sir: We pronounce it without exception to be the best we have ever known. Its effect upon every matter is complete and instantaneous.
